TEXAS COURT JUSTICE IS SLAIN

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

There are those who criticise the churches, calling them narrow and provincial and intolerant. Occasionally, upon certain matters, it has looked like the religious leaders were inclined just a little too far, and just a little too indifferent to the fact that good men might disagree with them without deserving the scorn and contumely of church members.

With all this in mind, however, few of us ever appreciate the great debt that the average community owes to the church. Aside from the religious teaching and beliefs, which might possibly prosper without the church but through some other organization, it is a fact that without the work of the church in the past years this would hardly be a place in which we might live.

The influence of the church has been great. Through altering the attitude of men and women it has caused them to go out into the world and set up new standards. It has made possible the protection of wealth. It has made the lives of men and women safe. It has restrained mankind from all manner of evil. Without its curb, which holds back every member of society to some extent, this would no doubt be a shameless place, a blot on the face of the earth.

Those who are prone to criticise the church and to harp on its faults seldom investigate far enough to know that earnest leaders of church activity are also alert to the reforms that churches require. If the average critic of the church would subject his or her life to the same clear eyed scrutiny that sincere church members give the workings of their organization the improvement that would result would be marked.

The problems of life sooner or later interests us all. For ages men and women have considered the purpose of existence, have believed in and doubted immortality, and alike have joined the myriad host that sleep beneath the soil. Today, with most, no answer has come from the broad fields of eternity, and faith alone becons a soul to believe.

Science, denounced by religion, brings us the great truth that physical matter does not die; that throughout endless eons it will live in many forms. That which today is solid and substantial may tomorrow be invisible, intangible, but alive. This in itself is a great truth. Man may do his utmost but he cannot annihilate matter.

The ice that wraps the northern climes may melt in warm spring, but it is water; it may evaporate under heat, but it is vapor. The cool breath of the sky may breathe upon the vapor, condense it into rain, it is water again; the blizzard may burst up on the water and turn it into ice. Throughout the changes nothing has been lost, no particle of matter has been destroyed. The same quantity of ice remains.

The melting ice exacts from the forces of nature the same heat energy that the freezing water returns. The evaporation of water requires no more heat than the condensation of the vapor releases. Not only is matter indestructible, but energy and heat can never disappear. Life then today is as it has been, the constant use of the same matter, appearing as one thing and appearing as another. The change from one form to another is today the same use and release of the same heat and energy that has existed for ages.

When the people of Cameron take stock of the local situation they must surely realize that no town can grow unless it has the loyal and enthusiastic support of the inhabitants thereof.

Business is the power that determines the growth of a town, and the

PIERSON AND WIFE SHOT AT AUSTIN

Austin, April 24.—Associate Justice William Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pierson were shot to death tonight by two highwaymen on a road near Austin.

A son, William Pierson, Jr., 21, was shot in the arm. He notified officers who went to the scene on the Bull Creek road about four miles from Austin and found the bodies. They were brought to a funeral home.

Justice Pierson was 61 years old, and had been a member of the supreme court for 14 years.

Resist Attackers

Young Pierson said the robbers, armed with pistols, stopped the Piersons' automobile as they drove along the highway, ordered them to drive up a lane, and then robbed Justice Pierson of his watch and money.

When Justice Pierson and his son offered resistance, the robbers began shooting. Justice Pierson and his wife dropped dead in the road, while the son fell under some bushes. After the shooting subsided and the robbers left, young Pierson found his parents dead.

Unable to place the bodies in the automobile because of his wounded arm, Pierson drove slowly to the city where he notified officers and his arm was dressed at a hospital. He accompanied the officers who went for the bodies.

Shot Twice

A cursory examination of the bodies before removal of the clothes revealed each had been shot at least twice. Justice Pierson was shot through the head and the left wrist.

F. O. Linden, ambulance driver, said the bodies apparently had been dragged about 10 feet.

The bodies, Linden said, were down a lane about 100 yards from a scenic loop road. The location was about 15 miles west of Austin in a cedar brake area.

Linden said he was told at the scene of the shooting that two persons in a truck first saw the bodies and immediately went to the house of Will Phillips, a rancher, in the community. Phillips notified the sheriff's department.

Heard Woman's Scream

Linden quoted Phillips as saying he heard three shots, a woman's scream and two shots more.

Local officers were assisted in an investigation immediately started by Frank Hamer, former Texas Ranger captain, who with Ranger Manny Gault, ambushed the notorious desperada pair, Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, on a Louisiana road.

Governor James V. Allred, Attorney General William McCraw and other state officials were informed of the tragedy at a rospital where they had assembled upno learning of the shooting.

Surviving Justice and Mrs Pierson are two sons, Howard Pierson of Austin and William J. Pierson, student in the University of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. Harvey Thomas of Salina, Kansas.

WARWICK FLAYS BANKING CRITICS

Says Millions Are Grateful To Their Bankers for Not Losing One Dollor of Deposits.

Indianapolis, Ind.

Speaking to a large group of Indianapolis business men here, Don E. Warrick, secretary of the Indiana Bankers Association, declared that there were millions of Americans "silently grateful to their particular bankers for 'coming through' without causing the loss of a single dollar of deposits.

"But this quite enormous group of our citizens are not vocal," he said "at least not as vocal as the loud critics who charge that all banking has failed, that all bankers are full of guile, that the banks are wholly responsible for the great cataclysm of the depression."

Mr. Warrick summarized the present situation as follows:

"I shall try to tell you about 'Some of Our Present Banking Day Problems.' Just prior to the bank moratorium in early 1933, vast criticism of bankers was abroad. Whispers went the round, some of them true, many of them wholly untrue. The great American public was gossiping. Out of this came the hysteria.

"Banks must be liquid over night. They must suddenly be ready to pay every depositor in money all he has on deposit. Many savings as well as checking accounts that had not been touched for years suddenly turned into demands for payment from the bank.

"Today—a short two years after that hysteria—the critics assail the banking business. This time they tell

BAND GOES TO WACO CONTESTS

Francis Cox, director of the Cameron Band, will lead the crack company of young musicians to Waco on Friday night for the contests in the eastern division of Texas competition.

The meet will be a two day affair Friday and Saturday April 26 and 27 at Waco Hall. On Friday night the program takes the bands to Carroll field at Baylor University. The program opens with a spectacular marching contest of all the bands.

On Saturday morning all Class A and B high school bands will play in the contest.

Cameron band leaves for Waco Friday afternoon and enters marching contest Saturday morning and the big street parade Saturday afternoon.

There will be no contests for municipal bands this year. It is limited to bands in high school class with only students as members. Due to this ruling Cameron was forced to enter Class B Contest. This will cut the band to 30 pieces giving the band little chance to place high in ranking. About 15 Class B bands will enter, and many are much older than Cameron.

School bands are registered according to enrollment in high school regardless of experience of band members and Class B will have bands with from 3 to 8 years.

Cameron will be watching with interest her splendid company of boys who will unfurl the colors of old Yoe High in the big musical meet, and wishes her band the best of luck along with Francis Cox.

THOUSANDS, MILLIONS, BILLIONS, QUADRILLIONS

It is unfortunate that the mind can not grasp or comprehend the amount and volume of billions of bonds issued by our law makers at Washington, D. C., the President, the members of the Senate and Lower House.

A fair idea, however, may be had of the enormous sum by comparison. The gross value of the average cotton crop of all the states in the cotton belt is about one half of one billion dollars. The last issue of bonds authorized by our law makers at Washington was 4 billion, 800 million dollars, equal to about the gross value of ten crops of cotton of all the states.

The outstanding bonds of the Federal Government is about 40 billion dollars, equal to the gross value of 80 crops of cotton of all the states in the cotton belt. The interest of the 40 billion dollars at 2 1-2 per cent per annum is one billion dollars.

It will be seen from the above that it will require the gross value of all cotton produced in all the states in the cotton belt for a period of ten years to pay the principal of the last bond issue; and the gross value of all the cotton produced in all the states in the cotton belt for a period of 8 years to pay the principal of the outstanding bonds of 40 billion dollars; and the gross value of all cotton produced in all states in the cotton belt two years to pay the interest one year on the outstanding bonds of 40 billion dollars.

Two cotton crops for one year's interest.

The bonds and the interest on the bonds will not be paid out of the cotton crop or by the people in the cotton belt. It will be paid by all the states. The cotton crop is referred to as a comparison to indicate and bring to the mind what the billions are and how much.

Our law makers at Washington express doubt that this amount will be sufficient for the next two years; but whether sufficient or insufficient, it will be a great relief so long as it lasts. It will enable the President to uphold the price of cotton, and in turn will enable the farmers and home owners to pay the interest and taxes on their homes as it accrues; but will not enable them to pay the principal of the mortgages on their homes or the past due interest and past due taxes.

The plan offers nothing permanent. Nothing in prospect for permanent recovery. When the two years roll by and 1937 comes, the 4 billion 800 million dollars will all be spent and the debt on the lands and on the homes and the taxes and interest now delinquent will remain unpaid, and if something better is not done, another bond issue will be necessary for the relief of the people; and of the Federal Government refuses to issue the bonds, what will we do?

J. K. FREEMAN.

April 23, 1935, Cameron, Texas.

Buckholts has a nine months' school term this year, is classified and has secured six unit credits, having made aplication for same in December, 1934. Length of 1930-33 was seven months; 1933-34 eight months; 1934-35 is nine months. This steady growth it attributed to the co-operation of the present school board: E. Horstmann, president; E. J. Kahler, secretary, and V. A. Kubecka; and the present faculty, E. L. Hinson, superintendent; C. H. Yoe, principal, Miss Viola Tarwater, High school teacher; Marvin Slovacek, teacher of 6th and 7th grades; Mrs. C. H. Yoe, 4th and 5th; Mrs. Bertha L. Goodwin, 2nd and 3rd; Mrs. W. P. Elliott, beginners and 1st grade.

Material has been submitted for further affiliation, which is expected to reach eight units during this term. The faculty has been re-elected for next year. During the past term the following improvements have been made: A new roof on auditorium, building replastered, interior walls calcimined, all wood work re-finished, new black boards installed, fence built around school grounds, gravel walks to out houses and to front gate, cattle guard, pecan trees planted in terraces, shrubs set in appropriate places, about $20.00 was spent for needed equipment all of which perhaps is listed above. Washington.—According to statistics of the Federal Bureau of Air Commerce, there has been an increase in the purchase of small civilian airplanes. In 1934, 853 such airplanes were purchased, including 661 monoplanes and 192 biplanes. This may indicate that at some future date the Aerican family may have its private airplane as well as their automobile.

Customers Get Refund

Something like a million customers of a telephone company in Chicago are believing in miracles because of a refund of $20,700,000 now being completed.

It came about when the United States Supreme Court ordered the company to refund more than a billion nickles collected from coin box subscribers during 1933 and 1934.

The public is conscious of the fact that big business usually wins its cases in Court. This is probably due to the advantage of better organization and adequate finances to carry on sustained litigation. Anyway, it is a distinct novelty to hear about such a refund as this and a pleasure to chronicle the fact that it is about completed.

Do Sunspots Cause Depressions?

The widespread debate that continues to attract attention throughout the world and to center its efforts upon discovering the causes of the world wide depression takes a new angle when Dr. A. A. Brill, Harvard phychiatrist, points out that there may be a correlation between sun spots and the depression.

He insists that the "depression will not cure itself until the emotional condition subsides" and argues that we should watch the cycle in the individual and apply the analysis to nations and races. He says "Curves or solar radiation, conditioned by sun spots, follow curves of stock prices and business activity" and suggests that emotions, which make behavior may be connected with ultra violet rays.

World Situation Dangerous

It is infinitely important that the people of this country realize the changed conditions that exist in the world and understand the threat to world peace that is brought about through the rise to power of dictators like Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, who are practically dependent upon their armies for support at home and their own aggrandisement abroad.

The conditions now existing in Europe are much more ominous than those which existed in 1913 and the nations are more heavily armed than just before the World War.

Rising tides of nationalistic sentiment lead many thoughtful observers to conclude that war, while it may be avoided for a while, will inevitably involve the continent. There is little idea in this country that the Unite dStates will join in such conflict, even though it becomes necessary to give up her foreign trade almost entirely. However, we might just as well face the facts, which include an aggressive Japan in the far East, and lay our plans accordingly.

About Utility Losses

Public utility holding companies are vigorously combatting legislation which, they contend, would wreck the value of stock held by many people. They insist that the government, under the pretense of regulating, is about to destroy them.

The administration bill, which would abolish these holding companies by 1940, is blamed for the collapse of prices of utility securities. However, Dozier Devane, solicitor of Federal Power Commission, cites figures to show that these securities suffered a loss of $16,000,000,000 between 1929 and February 1933. This enormous loss was not occasioned by threatened legislation because at that time President Roosevelt had not assumed office.

It may be true, as the utilities charge, that the $600,000,000 loss shown since February, 1933 has resulted in part from proposed legislation. However, it seems to us that it is much better to take a loss, if necessary to properly straighten out the holding company situation rather than permit the public to suffer another enormous loss when future utility barons emulate the Insull area.

Helping the Public Schools

Very few citizens take time to think what the public school system means to the average child. Without free popular education many children would grow into adults without being adequately prepared for taking proper care of themselves in a business world based upon competitive manners.

We were talking to a prominent merchant of the city yesterday along the general subject of education. He did not have the opportunity to attend school for long, and yet we have talked with no one who appreciates more fully the value of an education not only to his own child, but to the children of the other man. Hundreds of good citizens in this community would be unable to educate their children without free schools.

When we reflect upon the value of an education to a child we realize the thing that school taxes are paid for. When the citizen thinks only of the amount he has to pull from his pocket for the maintenance of the school system he exhibits a lack of the co-operative, unselfish spirit which must be the backbone of a successful republic.

It Will Not Mean Much

Students of the many institutions of learning participated in anti-war demonstrations about ten days ago. Speeches were positive and resolutions in many instances declared forcefully that the participants would not serve country unless it was being "actually invaded."

While the Herald is thoroughly in sympathy with any effort to promote peace, it violently disagrees with the assumption that war can be prevented by weakening one's government or by dividing the people of the United States. However, the student demonstrations will mean little or nothing when the band begins to play.

Much the same argument applies to the action of the House of Representatives in adopting the amendment to the war profits bill which forbids the use of conscript to repel actual invasion. Everybody knows that war, meaning in essence the employment of absolute force, also carries with it implication that successful commanders will not obey laws that prevent the waging of victorious battles.

Soviet Shows the Way

Convicted of having participated in an appropriation of flour and other food supplies which were sold thru speculators, three officers of a Soviet Government food products company have been sentenced to death and seventeen others will go to prison.

The remedy may seem harsh to those who have become accustomed to regard public office as an opportunity to "feather their nests" but if the people of the United States want to get rid of graft and petty political thievery, the Soviet Government points out a very painful but undoubtedly effective method to be pursued.

Farm Prosperity Depends

While there are conflicting opinions the predominant sentiment among business prognosticators proclaims a coming business advance.

Undoubtedly, there is solid ground for the belief that the future holds out brighter prospects for industry generally. Industrial activity for the first quarter of 1935 was twelve per cent higher than 1934. Moreover, government expenditures under the work relief program are expected to increase the gains.

A word of caution should be uttered to the people of Milam county, however, which applies alike to all sections depending to a large degree upon agriculture for prosperity. Business and industrial activity may record great gains without any corresponding improvement in the condition of farmers. This has been noticed before and may easily occur again unless those dependent upon agriculture safeguard the interests of farmers generally.

Along this line we call attention of the farmers of Milam county to the vigorous attacks now being made upon the present program of cash benefits to growers of basic agricultural products. We do not pretend to say that AAA is perfect or even in this article to suggest that it should be continued indefinitely. What should be said, however, is that if the AAA succumbs to the attack of its enemies, farmers and those dependent upon agriculture for prosperity should be alert to see that something worthwhile takes its place.

The air is full of talk about liberty and freedom and the talking is being done by many who would be the first to fight liberty and freedom for others.

Half of the energy of mankind is wasted on frivilous side issues. If you don't believe this just listen to the speakers at the next public meeting you attend.

We see where the scientists are experimenting with bringing dead dogs back to life in the hope that they will be able some day to do the same for people. So what?

Every individual has a hobby, sometimes referred to as a soft spot, and therefore the art of getting along with the so-caled human race is largely a matter of applying salve at the proper place.

We have no idea that anybody in Milam county agrees with the views of the editor. They are merely offered with the idea that the wise birds in the community can point out errors.

Processing taxes may be all wrong for all we know but we will tell Milam county farmers that when they begin to get benefits out of the public treasury the end of the benefits is near at hand.

habits that hurt business here are the factors that make for retarded growth. The men in business in Cameron are for the most part, trying to creditably develop the market, and to serve their fellow citizens through the extension of their lines. They are entitled to fair dealing by the buying public, and this only means giving them a chance to meet competition.

The modern, progressive merchant does not expect a buyer to pay him two prices for the same goods that his mail order competitor sells. He wishes, however, that the citizens would think about the difference in the service that is rendered Cameron by a store here and a store in an out of town place.

When you want to buy an article at once you go to the home merchant; when you want credit you know him well, when you want service to back your purchase you see him; when you rely upon honest advice as to what to buy you realize his worth: When you see a small article at an apparently cheap price you, sometimes, order it without realizing that there are extra charges to be considered, time to be lost, and a keep it whether you like it or not risk to run. The way to help Cameron grow is to help its business expand. Do your part.

NEW COURSES PROBABLE FOR NEXT YEAR

At the faculty meeting April 16, reports were given in regard to curriculum revision so that the courses of study offered by the high schools may more ably meet the needs of the varied students who attend.

Committees from the high school faculty have been working on next year's program for several months so that their reports might really give some constructive information that will actually enable the course of study to meet the many interests as represented by so many students.

As a result of the reports, the following new courses are being considered in respect to adding them to the list of courses already offered:

Vocational Guidance.
World History.
Biology.

Commercial law has already been added and is being taught this semester for the first time in the history of the high school. If the three courses being considered are added the result will be of great benefit to those students who take them as it will give them a wider range of knowledge.

FATHER'S ON THE WARPATH AGAIN

It's the same thing every month. Bills with box car numbers on them, and Dad ranting and raving all over the house. He can't understand why things cost so much, when he's always telling Mother to read the ads in the Herald, too. Some day Mother will get wise and read them. Then She'll know just what she's going to buy, and how much it will cost long before she goes shopping. It will save money and we'll be able to live as well as other people. And Dad will stop his regular monthly war dances, too.

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla: "I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught twenty years. Accounts Against County Must Reach Auditor Earlier

Conn R. Isaacs, county auditor, out of consideration for all the clerks in the office of Homer Nabours and in the interest of time it requires to check accounts, requests that all bills presented the county for payment be in his hands by Monday of the week in which the Commissioners Court meets.

INTRODUCING New Herald READERS

Hundreds Subscribe In Big Trend to Pioneer Journal

H. J. Laywell is another new reader who will get the Herald on Route 3 out of Cameron. He became a reader early in April and has already received two issues of the paper. Mr. Laywell in selecting the Herald has the thanks of the publishers who will bend every effort to bring him an interesting newspaper each week. Farm conditions have shown great improvement in recent months and Mr. Laywell believes that some permanent method may have to be maintained to guarantee better prices.

A new name out of state appears on the reader list this week. Mrs. Rilla Leatherock, at Perry, Oklahoma, who will read the Herald for the next twelve months. The family is interested in the development of this section and owns some farm lands in the county. The publishers are glad to introduce Mrs. Leatherock as a member o fthe great family of Herald readers.

S. D. Rudder of Hearne is a new Herald reader this week having been added to the list while a visitor in the city last week. Mr. Rudder is a former resident of this section and pioneer farmer in the Ben Arnold section. He has been in Robertson county for a number of years and will get his paper from the Hearne postoffice.

Emil Marak is a new reader and will get the Herald at his address at Bomarton, Texas. The paper is being mailed to him by his father, John Marak, Sr., prominent resident of the Marak community. He has been a reader for many years and is sending the Herald to his son so that he may know the news happenings of this section where he was born and reared. The publishers are glad to welcome him to the growing reader list among those who have moved beyond the borders of Milam county.

An old reader whose subscriber support we have appreciated for a number of years is E. H. Peschel of Route 1, Ben Arnold. He was a visitor in the offices of the publisher this week and has renewed again for another year. Mr. Peschel has the thanks of the publishers who will try to bring to his home address each week the best possible newspaper. He is a progressive farmer and has been pleased with the recovery of farm products. A good rain would just about end the depression, he believes.

Mrs. F. W. Iiams of Milano is a new Herald reader an dpaid these offices a visit last week in company with Mrs. Roberson, correspondent at Milano. The paper is being mailed to him by his mother, Mrs. C. M. Pierce of Hanover. As a former resident here he will find many things of interest in this paper during the coming months.

A pleasure for the Herald publishers last week was a visit from John Marak, Sr., of Marak. As a Herald reader for many years his support has been an encouragement to the publishers and we are glad to know that he has again selected the Herald. Not only has Mr. Marek thought of this newspaper in terms of one year but he paid his subscription to 1938 thus insuring himself that the paper will be mailed to his address without further attention for a long time. Mr. Marek lives on his farm. Besides being a community leader he is a member of the Democratic Executive Committee and has filled many places of responsibility in that section.

Another of the new readers who has been added in the Milano section is E. W. Baggett. He has been a reader for several weeks and the publishers are glad to include him this week in the allotment of space for introducing new readers of the Herald, now the fastest growing newspaper in Texas. Mr. Baggett is an ol dtime resident at Milano and we are glad to number him among the many who have chosen the better class county newspaper to read.

A new Herald reader this week is J. D. Eplen of the Eplen Furniture Company. He was for many years a member of the Coleman & Eplen Furniture Company. Some months ago, after having retired from business for a few years, he opened a furniture store near the Milam Hotel and has enjoyed a good business. Mr. Eplen in selecting the Herald for the coming months has the thanks of the publishers and we trust he will find many things of interest in these columns.

A. E. Matula of the Carey Lumber Company in Cameron is among the old readers in Cameron this week who have advanced their subscription dates for another year. He is happy to announce that plans are now complete and that homes may be built and repairs made through a system of easy finance.

N. J. Green of Rockdale is a new Herald reader. He has been on the subscriber list for the past two weeks and the publishers are glad to introduce him as one among the number of readers in Rockdale. Mr. Green is a pioneer of this county. At one time he was a resident of Cameron but for years has been in Rockdale. He appreciates the Herald and has selected it because of its merit and editorial policy.

Mrs. C. P. McGregor of Cameron is another new reader for the city this week. The paper will go forward to her address in Cameron. Mrs. McGregor has been with the office of tax collector for many years and is now serving in that place under Bill Alex Bonds. For 10 years she was an able assistant to Roy Law, collector. The publishers are happy to welcome her to the reader list. She is the mother of Harleigh McGregor now in India for the Texas Oil Company.

Another member of the Krenek family of Milam county has been added to the reader list of the Herald. He is Hugo Krenek who lives on Route 2 out of Buckholts. In renewing again he becomes a new reader for the new year and the publishers are glad to welcome his continued reader support. Mr. Krenek is a farmer in that section and a member of a large and interesting family whose forebears came here from Austin County.

Another new reader for Route 3 out of Cameron is Frank Salach who came in this week to get the Herald mailed to his address for 12 months. Mr. Salach thinks the Herald is the greatest newspaper bargain of tre age at the rate now in effect The publishers are glad to welcome him to the list and the paper will bring him each week many things of interest.

Knights Win First Game of Season As Lad Hrozek Stars

"Hank" Matula on the mound for the K. of C's here Sunday piched his team mates to their first victory of the season, in a game with Burlington Cubs on the local diamond.

Ladis Hrozek, Yoe High Football star, with two two-baggers and Leo Hollis with one two bagger, accounted for most of the runs batted in. Cotton Ross another Yoe High star playing his first game with the Knights did some excellent fielding as well as earning two hits out of 4 times to bat.

The Knights will play Yarrellton Sunday at Yarrellton.
